

$100,000 PROMISED TO DAUGHERTY IF HE GOT MORSE PARDONED

Mr. Morse who had agreed to pay $5,000 cash to cover expenses (this sum was paid)—$25,000 conditional upon our obtaining his release from the penitentiary. When this result was reported to Mr. Morse, he stated to us, in the presence of the penitentiary guard, that if we would renew our efforts to obtain his release, he would pay us, in addition to the amount agreed upon, the sum of $100,000 and exclaimed:

"Gentlemen, I will make you both rich if you will get me out of here."

The letter then tells how medical examinations of Morse's condition were made. The alleged details of the issuing of the pardon were related by Felder as follows:

"The day before the pardon was granted and, as we were hourly expecting it, some very unfavorable developments occurred, resulting from undesirable newspaper publicity, and we requested those responsible for it to desist until things quieted down. We had been expecting for a week or ten days to get the order for Morse's release. It did not come, so on the day the release was granted, we called at the office of Hon. John R. McLean, a warm personal friend of Mr. Daugherty's and an acquaintance of mine, also a friend of both the President and the Attorney General. Mr. McLean took the matter up actively. He called the editor in chief of the Washington Post, Mr. Bennett, over the phone, sent his automobile for him and had him brought to his office where he had a long conference going thoroughly over the situation.

HOW THE PARDON ORDER WAS OBTAINED.

"As a result thereof Mr. Bennett was despatched to the office of the Attorney General, where he was joined by Attorney General Wickham, and the two called at the White House, and after a protracted conversation between the President and Mr. McLean over the telephone, Mr. Bennett returned to the office of Mr. John R. McLean and delivered to us the order discharging Charles W. Morse, and the same was transmitted by us to the head official of the Atlanta Penitentiary."

The letter then tells of Morse's departure for Europe, and states that "there appeared in the press of the country numerous sensational articles to the effect that there was nothing the matter with Morse's health; that his release from the Federal Penitentiary had been secured by fraud and officials were urged to take immediate steps to have him remanded to the penitentiary."

Conferences with Attorney General

Wickham, in which Daugherty and Felder urged that the pardon order was final and that if the pardon had been obtained by fraud it would be necessary to submit it to a jury.

Next in the letter is related how Daugherty and Felder sought to collect the fee after Morse's return from Europe. As the result of preliminary conferences, Morse, Daugherty and Felder met in the room of a New York hotel, according to the letter.

"An animated discussion followed in which Mr. Daugherty denounced Morse in unmeasured terms, declining emphatically to accept the stocks tendered either as collateral or payment," says the letter.

"In this humor he left the room after some further discussion with Mr. Morse he asked me to hold the stocks until he could make some other arrangement in respect to them. I told them that I would not use the stocks, but he left the room and left them on my dresser. When I left the city that night for my home in Atlanta, Ga., I took the stocks in my valise."

Felder, in the letter, vigorously denied that Daugherty and he had any knowledge of fraud in the Morse pardon—but agreed that "publicity would be disagreeable if not embarrassing to all concerned."

"We were informed that the Department was in possession of evidence going to show that after physicians were appointed to examine Morse and before they appeared on the scene soap suds or chemicals or something would be taken by him to produce hemorrhage of the kidneys, and that as soon as the examination was over, the patient would recuperate rapidly," the letter continues.

"As I have stated we have not brought the suit or instituted any proceedings in the matter, because both Mr. Daugherty and myself felt that we had all the notoriety and newspaper publicity that we should in reason have in connection with this transaction."

The letter concludes: "We have rightly earned all that Morse agreed to pay, viz.: the expenses, the $25,000, the $100,000 and

Dandruff Soon Ruins The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then destroy it entirely. To do this get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Adv't.

whatever is involved in his assurance, 'I will make you both rich' I don't want him to make us both rich. I don't want the $100,000 he agreed to pay, but I do want the $25,000 that he contracted in writing to pay for securing his release from the penitentiary, and I do want compensation for services rendered him by engagement of his son, Harry Morse, for coming to Washington and presenting to the Department of Justice through a brief filed and by oral argument, reasons why he should not be remanded to the penitentiary and I propose to have this and have it at a very early date."

SOLDIER OFFICIAL HELD AS $200,000 EMBEZZLER

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Marvin G. Sperry, President of the Private Soldiers and Sailors' League, was arrested here today as a fugitive from justice at the request of Baltimore detectives, who charged him with embezzlement of $200,000 from the Soldiers' Club of that city, which he founded.

The complaint against Sperry, the detectives said, was sworn out by Edward Smyth, former Canadian soldier, who was placed in charge of the club when the Baltimore War Mothers and other organizations withdrew their support from it.

ATTACK POLICEMAN IN BUILDING WAR

Hurled From Third Story
Window of Apartment in Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 22.—Collapse of a threatened building trade strike and an attack on a policeman were the principal developments to-day in the so-called labor war. Additional indictments were expected to be returned by the Grand Jury.

Patrolman James Mullen was thrown from the third story of an apartment building, being erected under the Landis wage award, by three men believed by police to be labor wreckers. He suffered a fractured ankle, spinal and possible internal injuries.

Mullen saw three men enter the building. He followed them to the third floor, where all three attacked him. The assailants escaped.

Police said to-day they had obtained further evidence which is said to link "Big Tim" Murphy, Mader and Shea, labor leaders, with the slaying of two policemen in terror disorders May 9.
